God took the fragrance
of a flower...
The majesty of a tree...
The gentleness of
morning dew...
The calm of a quiet sea...
The beauty
of the twilight hour...
The soul
of a starry night...
The laughter of a
rippling brook...
The grace of a bird
in flight...
Then God fashioned
from these things
A creation like no other,
And when his masterpiece was through
He called it simply - Mother.

A MEMBER OF SAINT TERESA OF CALCUTTA DEANERY

Dear People of God,

I've begun a series on why people have abandoned Mass and the Church and last week touched on the notion of entitlement. That subject affects all three requirements of being a part of the Catholic Church. I concluded that far too many people have allowed the entitlement behavioral pattern to invade their spiritual life. They believe God owes them and because he hasn't paid off, they leave the auditorium just like Elvis! I noted that far too many men and women, young and old, no longer believe in the real presence so don't grasp the immense gift being offered at Mass.

Here's what God owes us: "Lord, I am not worthy that you should enter under my roof." We say it every time we're at Mass, just before we receive not what we are owed but what God gives us as a gift of love: the Eucharist. God owes us nothing. In fact, we owe God everything. God has certainly been generous to us.

A famous English atheist physicist was going to prove that there was no God and turned to a careful examination of the Big Bang – what we Catholics believe was the immediate result of God's words: let there be light. His research examined the first brief particles of the pico seconds of that event and concluded that had they occurred in any other sequence than they did, we'd not be here today. That very beginning, before time had a chance to intervene in the ordering of the universe, so astounded him that he became a very committed Christian!

Are we entitled to the air we breathe? No. It's a gift, and a precious one we ought to care for with far greater reverence. Are we entitled to the light of the sun? No. It's a gift, and a precious one which we ought to appreciate with awe that the science works and the light of the sun reaches us. The litany goes on to every physical reality, to the working of our bodily functions, to the ground which will open for our grave.

Are we entitled to life? No. Our founders understood that and enumerated it as one of the rights with which we are endowed by our Creator, and they understood that rights carry with them certain obligations which entitlement erases, like the necessity for Christians to offer back to God some of their time, talent and treasure.

Yet all around the world people have come to believe that they are entitled. When the entitlement isn't met, they get angry, depressed, frustrated and often act out. Much of the acting out is not communal; it's not the community but a crowd of disconnected individuals. The sad fact is that entitlement is not a social reaction but the result of placing the individual before the good of the society of which the individual is but a single part. Benjamin Franklin understood what happens if the social entity is fractured and divided: if we don't all hang together, we shall all certainly hang separately.

Entitlements are historically destructive. We might look back at Rome and discover that it wasn't the lead pipes that destroyed the empire; rather, an entitlement culture – people who ought to have been sharing their time, talent and treasure were increasingly avoiding any of that so they could indulge in personal pleasures (you may recall that Dante attended to these folks on his journey through hell) at the expense of the Roman state. The wealthy and entitled sought ways and means of avoiding taxes, family formation and those wealthy families died out. The poor came to expect free lunch and free entertainment and most of the genuine Roman poor died out to be replaced by foreign invaders. Next week will see more thoughts on this topic of declining participation in the Church. Join me in the hope that it is not a permanent trend in our society.

Msgr. Chris
